Programme on Lending to Large and Mid-Corporate

India's business environment appears to be turning positive with an increase in corporate loans extended by major banks in the country. RBI's data on sectoral deployment of bank credit also point to increase in credit to industry by 4.4 per cent in December 2018, in comparison to 2.1 per cent in December 2017. Bank credit to productive sectors of the economy has a critical role in sustaining economic growth, which is expected to be 7.5 per cent in 2019 and 2020, according to Organisation for Economic Cooperation and Development (OECD). The major factors contributing to this growth are: newly introduced Goods and Services Tax (GST), the new Indian Bankruptcy Code, the implementation of the recapitalization package to strengthen the public sector banks, etc. Though this appears to be a new dawn for the banking industry, it is very important for banks to be proactive in taking lending decisions. In light of Basel Norms, proper assessment of credit risk and continuous monitoring of loans are critical. Given these, the officers working in credit need to be equipped with the latest tools and techniques for credit risk analysis, risk measurement and management, with particular reference to risk and return framework.
