Programme on Marketing for Branch Managers

Focus: Retail and MSME

With the recent changes in customer behaviour, technological advancement and growing concerns about asset quality, there is a realisation that branch banking will undergo a major transformation. The role of digital customers is likely to influence branches to be technology-laden. Since many of the routine tasks are migrating out of branches, it is likely that branches will focus on sales and service, with relationship banking playing a key role. Marketing strategies at the branch level, therefore, have become crucial in generating revenue and developing long-term customer relationships.

Retail and MSME customers look forward to an engaging relationship with banks for which branches play an important role. Studies indicate that the segments which receive human touch at the branch not only contribute to long-lasting loyalty but also to bank profitability. Against this backdrop, the programme has been designed to improve branch performance by re-energizing branch marketing efforts with a focus on retail and MSME banking.

Objectives

- To understand the emerging scenario and its impact on branch banking.
- To help devise effective branch marketing strategy for business development.
- To develop marketing perspectives and skills in strengthening the branch retail and MSME portfolio.

Inputs

The programme has been designed to provide a holistic view of customer needs and expectations, best practices, and innovative marketing practices. Inputs on market planning, market segmentation, marketing strategies, and customer service will be provided. Experience sharing by bankers having expertise in branch banking with a focus on retail banking and MSME banking will be offered and participants' presentation will be included.

Course Content
