Programme on Credit Analysis: Focus Lending to Services Sector

India's dominant services sector is not called the economic engine without reason. The sector, which accounts for about 55.2 per cent of gross value added, is likely to lead growth in gross fixed capital formation – a measure of investment spending – that had remained subdued in the last couple of years. The seasonally adjusted Nikkei India Services Business Activity Index rose to 50.3 in March, 2018 from 47.8 in February 2018.

Due to the peculiar nature of many of the services sector projects, there is a need for more proactive approach to tap the opportunities in the sector in a coordinated way. Some services like software and telecom are big ticket items that gives India a brand image in services. While further focus on these services is needed to retain and further our lead, the time has come to focus on some other high potential big ticket items (such as Tourism and hospitality sector, Ports services and Railways) that have high manufacturing-sector and employment linkages.

Hence large number of businesses which require financial assistance, can be profitably tapped by the banks if they understand the business model and subsequently the financing requirements. In this backdrop the programme is designed to equip participants with necessary qualitative and quantitative skills to assess the potentialities and the risks involved in lending to services sector. And also to facilitate taking the right credit decision through an objective and comprehensive assessment of credit needs, credit worthiness, economic and financial feasibility of the activities/projects proposed for bank finance.
