Programme on Managing Non-SLR Investments

Need for the Programme

Banks and other Financial Institutions, like Insurance Companies, Mutual Funds, Pension Funds, etc., have significant investments in different types of financial market instruments, including government. Securities, non-government Bonds, several Money Market instruments, Equities, Derivatives, and many more. There is a tremendous growth and development worldwide for these products, in terms of product structure, risk-return profile, regulatory issues, etc., especially after the global meltdown. These developments have posed significant challenges to the portfolio managers, especially to manage their Non-SLR Portfolio strategically and more efficiently. A comprehensive training on these subjects may facilitate the portfolio managers to optimize their investment portfolio, and to get the desired results.

Participants' Takeaway

This six-day intensive training module has been carefully designed to address the current challenges faced by the portfolio managers in successfully managing their Non-SLR investment portfolio with diverse instruments having different risk-return profile. At the end of this programme, the participants are expected to:

- Familiarize with various basic and innovative financial products.
- Assess the Return and Risk profiles involved in various products.
- Evaluate various Strategies to trade in those products, within the given constraints.
- Understand the usefulness and consequence of various techniques required to hedge the portfolio.
- Exposed to a Simulated Trading Game in Bonds and Money Market Products.
- Be aware and well versed with the Rules and Regulations within which they need to perform.
- Enjoy a unique opportunity to network with within and across the industry peers.
