Programme on Measuring Effectiveness of Cyber Security

Background

Cyber security is the highest concern of the senior management and stakeholders of banks. High dependency and changing threat landscape have necessitated regulators and banks to focus on implementing cyber security framework and solutions. Although everyone agrees that 100 per cent security is impossible, stakeholders expect reasonable security measures to be adopted by the banks.

Banks need to provide assurance to stakeholders on the cyber security profile of the bank. The programme is focused on discussing various aspects of measuring effectiveness of cyber security.

Objectives

To provide information on measuring effectiveness of cyber security based on:

- Risk assessment and Key Risk Indicators (KRI) monitoring
- Developing KRI for cyber security
- Developing measurement metrics for different security areas like SOC, Incident management, Risk monitoring, KRI and KPI Monitoring.
- Cyber security maturity model.

Content

- ❖ Cyber security governance model
- ❖ Cyber risk management
- ❖ Developing KRIs for cyber security
- ❖ Developing measurement metrics for various security processes and technology
- ❖ Cyber security maturity model

Target Group

The programme would be beneficial for middle and senior management involved in Governance, IT, Risk Management and Cyber security.

Methodology

This programme will have a proper blend of sharing of expertise and experience with help of case studies to be discussed during training.
