

Programme on Credit Analysis

Focus: Lending to Services Sector

India's dynamic services sector has grown rapidly in the last decade with almost 72.4 per cent of the growth in India's GDP coming from this sector. Unlike other developing economies, the Indian growth story has been led by services' sector growth which is now in double digits. The borrowers in this sector have to raise finance on the strength of their business and backing of cash flows rather than asset cover or collateral security and the bank has to rely on intangible assets for realisation, thus making this sector a little risky. Due to the peculiar nature of many of the services sector projects, there is a need for a more proactive approach to tap the opportunities in the sector in a coordinated way.

There are a large number of businesses which require financial assistance from banks, which can be profitably tapped by the banks if they understand the business model and subsequently the financing requirements. Though there is lack of data to make comparisons, new methods of lending need to be designed and implemented. Against this backdrop, the programme is designed to equip participants with necessary qualitative and quantitative skills to assess the potentialities and the risks involved in lending to the services' sector. And also to facilitate taking the right credit decision through an objective and comprehensive assessment of credit needs, credit worthiness, economic and financial feasibility of the activities/projects proposed for bank finance.
