

Financing MSMEs

Micro, small and medium enterprises (MSMEs) are the engines of economic growth, employment generation, exports, entrepreneurship development, and innovation. Developing economies have initiated several policy measures and programmes for promotion and development of MSMEs in order to accelerate economic development. The Government of India, for instance, has initiated various new schemes like Startup India, Standup India and Make in India which augur well for the growth and development of small enterprises. Entrepreneurial ventures with innovative ideas and service enterprises are mushrooming in India and other developing countries. MSMEs thus provide a huge opportunity for banks and financial institutions. However, their characteristics and financial services' needs are significantly different from that of large corporates and demand credit analysis models, loan products and strategies specially designed for financing them.
