The role of infrastructure is very critical for the agri-value chain management, especially at the post-harvest stage (including agro-processing) when the produce can be optimally utilized with opportunity for value addition and fair deal for the farmers and consumers. Development of such infrastructure shall also address the vagaries of nature, the regional disparities, development of human resource and realization of full potential of our limited land resource.

The commercialization of agriculture into agri-business is being viewed as an effective pathway for making agriculture sustainable. To meet this objective, both public and private investment in agri-infrastructure and agro-processing is critical. The government has rolled out several schemes to integrate agri-value chain along with effective agri-infrastructure financing schemes, such as SAMPADA, Agriculture Infrastructure Fund, e-NAM, etc.

The immediate need for the economy is to improve the agri-infrastructure through financing various infrastructure projects and agro processing enterprises. Banks and financial institutions will find tremendous opportunity in financing agri-infrastructure, agro processing units and MSMEs. However, these enterprises have unique characteristics and financial needs. Therefore, there is a need for understanding the characteristics and financial services requirements of MSMEs in agri-infrastructure and agro-processing so that a win-win relationship can be built between the lending institutions and agri-based MSMEs.
